

Project 1

You are hired to create a program for a user. You can choose the application. Think of an application that would be useful for someone. For example, I could create a program that calculates grades for students. They would enter their grades and the program would calculate their numerical grade based on the weight of each category, etc.

You need to think of several things...who would use this? What would it be used for? How do I create it?

We have very limited coding experience to this point, so try not to get too complicated yet stay ambitious as well.

Each individual will create their own program. You should include a description of your program (who will use it, etc) in your comments.
